

COURT ORDERS
EVIDENCE BARRED TO WHITEWASHERS

Judge Schaeffer Impounds The Jury Data and Forbids Witnesses To Testify

UPHOLDS GRAND JURY

Forbids Shelley and Margiotti To Give Testimony Before House Committee

HARRISBURG, Aug. 2.—In a fight launched by Democratic leaders to halt the approaching Grand Jury investigation of the Governor and 13 associates, two telling blows were sustained yesterday.

Judge Paul N. Schaeffer, specially presiding in Dauphin County Court, issued a formal order which virtually nullified the stop-probe legislation which the Governor whipped through the Democratic-controlled Legislature last week and signed in the dead of night.

The Court's order demonstrated that the judiciary has not been cowed by the intemperate attacks by the Governor and his satellites, among them U. S. Senator Joseph F. Guffy.

First, Judge Schaeffer impounded all evidence of purported graft and corruption against the accused officials—evidence that Democratic strategists were bent on obtaining before it reached the Grand Jury room.

Then he directed District Attorney Carl B. Shelley and former Attorney General Charles J. Margiotti not to testify or produce any of their evidence before the committee which was authorized by the Legislature to investigate the charges is unconstitutional.

Judge Schaeffer's order was made on petition of District Attorney Shelley, who argued that every one of the four laws enacted to give the House of Representatives exclusive right to investigate the charges is unconstitutional.

The Court's stand—upholding the orderly process of judicial procedure—had the effect of further intensifying a crucial situation from which any eventuality might be expected.

Earle has publicly announced that he will fight to the last ditch to prevent the courts from carrying out their prerogatives, and at one time he even indicated that he might resort to calling out the National Guard, although he later said reports he was considering such action were "ridiculous."

But a show of force in some form seemed a certainty in view of the power given to the House of Representatives by one of the four white-wash bills to imprison witnesses who refuse to answer questions or submit subpoenaed evidence.

Shelley's new petition, it was generally agreed, will open the way for a ruling as to constitutionality of the Administration-demanded legislation.

What course the Administration will take in event Judge Schaeffer will direct the Grand Jury to proceed next Monday is a matter for anybody's conjecture.

The issue was clearly drawn by District Attorney Shelley as a contest between the executive and legislative branches of Government on the one hand and the judiciary on the other.

The four laws enacted by the Legislature would give the House investigating committee—whose members will be named tomorrow—precedence over the Grand Jury and would delay the Grand Jury investigation until after the committee's work is done.

Questioned by newspaper men after court, Judge Schaeffer said:

"Mr. Shelley is questioning constitutionality of these acts. I'll have to give consideration to that before next Monday."

Monday is the date the Grand Jury investigation is to begin.

And although one of the laws says specifically that the Grand Jury inquiry is suspended, Judge Schaeffer said:

"The order calling the Grand Jury is not revoked, and unless it is revoked it will proceed. If no one else raises the question of constitutionality on next Monday I will have to decide it."

The jurist made it plain, however, that he did not want his ruling construed as affirming Shelley's contention that the laws are unconstitutional. He also announced that he had given much consideration to the Legislature's actions and that he had not acted without deliberation.

"What I said wasn't curbstone stuff," he said of his informal opinion given from the bench.

Judge Schaeffer said his order was

NAZIS READY TO WAGE FIGHT FOR MARKETS

German Leaders Dismayed By Upset in Brazil, Plan New Strategy

NEED S. AMERICA TRADE

By Pierre J. Huss

(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

BERLIN, Aug. 2.—(INS)—Nazi Germany, eager for adaptable markets in which to swap manufactured goods for raw materials she lacks, is determined to buck the United States to the last ditch in the struggle for the economic penetration of South America.

Germany in the past few years spared no effort to create for herself a vast market in South America and sent thousands upon thousands of settlers into these lands as the solid base on which to build this economic expansion.

In more recent years it has added dose after dose of propaganda over the radio and through the customary channels of Nazi tutoring. But the sudden energy and influence developed in Brazil by the United States practically caught Germany off guard, with the net result that the Nazis have nearly lost out completely in that country much to their pained surprise.

The sudden Nazi awakening to this fact has launched energetic attempts to retain every foothold in the rest of the South American states. A German of long experience in that part of the world declared: "The success or failure of North America to play a hegemony role in South America will be decided in the ABC states alone. It seems, however, that so far only one of the ABC countries has been won over to America, namely Brazil. But it is equally certain that we are standing at the beginning only of a great game."

The blow to German ambitions and hopes in Brazil has been unparalting. Thousands of Germans will be returning sadly to the Fatherland soon owing to the difficulties of continuing to live and work there under present conditions. In Rio Grande do Sul alone 7,000 passages to Germany have been booked up to the Fall of this year. Italians are said to be leaving in still greater numbers. Some 10,000 have booked passage for Europe in ships leaving between now and fall. It is generally believed that the exodus is connected with the Vargas decree which restricted activities of foreign communities in Brazil, issued May 12, and generally regarded as directed against Nazi activities.

But Nazi Germany is hitting back, although the weapon being used may prove a boomerang. When the Bank of Brazil announced that the purchase of cheap German marks accumulating from German sales of Brazilian products had been stopped, the German official news agency had this to say: "It has now become impossible for Germany to continue buying coffee, tobacco, rubber, wood, meats, oranges, bananas, etc. Germany is therefore compelled to import these products, if not dropping their import entirely, from other countries where large additional purchase of such products were already being made."

HERE AND THERE IN BUCKS COUNTY

Although Morrisville Borough has a zoning ordinance which requires a permit be issued by the borough secretary before any building is done or alterations made to any property, it is reported that a number of new homes are being erected and no permits have been applied for. This matter was reported to Common Council and an investigation will be made. The ordinance provides for a heavy fine for all violations.

Register of Wills Mahlon H. Rickert, who slipped on a stairway in his home at Sellersville is confined to his home because of a cracked rib and contusions.

Mr. Rickert spent Wednesday in Doylestown, where he attended to his duties as Register of Wills, but late in the afternoon was compelled to return home because of the severity of pain.

An examination by a physician revealed a cracked rib and contusions.

Announcement has been made by County Agent William F. Greenwalt that the Bucks County Holstein field day will be held at the farm of Joseph Hallowell, Ivyland, Thursday, August 4th.

The program will get underway at 11 o'clock when junior and senior judging contests will be staged by R. R. Welch, Pennsylvania State College official judge.

At noon the Warminster Parent-Teacher Association will have sandwiches, coffee and refreshments for sale.

J. B. R. Dickey, Pennsylvania State College, will speak on "Pasture Improvement" at 1:30 o'clock, and Mr. Welch will speak on "Supplemental Dairy Feeds."

Speaking on "Our Tax Dollar And Where It Goes," Webster H. Shive, at a meeting of the Plumsteadville Grange held in the grange hall, Plumsteadville, said any citizen in Bucks county is able to check up and follow the expenditure of the road, school and county taxes.

"Bucks county is well kept so far as the county institutions, courts and other county affairs are concerned," said Mr. Shive. "When it comes to other taxes, such as gasoline and cigarette, we do not know exactly where the tax money goes," he said.

Mr. Shive advocated home rule in the dispensation of relief money.

The second speaker, Isaac S. Gross, who spoke on "How Can Farm Taxes Be Reduced?" said that road, school and county taxes are paid by people who receive direct benefits from the taxes.

Fighting desperately for the greater part of 45 minutes, the members of the Dublin Fire Company Friday evening between five and six o'clock were able to prevent from complete destruction a small barn on the property of Christian Meyers, on Main street.

It was during the heavy thunder storm which passed over Dublin that evening that the barn on the former Levi Yoder property was struck by the lightning. At one time it was used as a combination store, warehouse and garage.

Running their hose lines to a large cistern on the adjoining property of Harold A. Buckner, the firemen played a stream of water on the building for fully 45 minutes and in this way they prevented the flames from breaking out of the barn. It was through the excellent work of the firemen also that several adjoining barns were saved. All of them were near to the barn which was on fire.

Fearing that these barns might become ignited, the local firemen put in a call for the Plumsteadville Fire Company, but it did not go into action.

Bethanna Conference To Conduct Bible School

The Bethanna Bible and Missionary Conference of Southampton is conducting a Daily Vacation Bible School at the Calvary Baptist Church, Wood and Walnut streets, from August 1st through Saturday, August 6th.

The school is more of an experiment now, but if it is successful, classes will continue at least one day a week throughout the entire year, leaders of the school state.

Classes will be from nine to 11:30 a. m., with a 15 minute interval for a recess period at 10. The classes will be divided into three or four groups. Groups will be of beginners, intermediates, juniors and seniors.

A devotional period of song and prayer will serve to open the school before the various groups adjourn to their respective classes. Besides Bible work, the students will also engage in constructing Biblical proverbs, verses, mottoes, etc., upon wood. Girls will embroider the same upon cloth. Bible memory work will also be part of the work of the school.

With the possible exception of one, all the teachers will be supplied by the Bethanna Conference. Clair Ruth, a Bible School student for two years, may take charge of the primary group. The other instructors will be Miss Blackwell, Mr. and Mrs. Landis, and Mr. Cartwright, all of Bethanna.

JUDGE KELLER ORDERS DRIVER TO GO TO FLORIDA

Breaks Precedent of Sending Drunken Drivers Who Have Accident To Jail

DOES IT FOR SON'S SAKE

Several Opinions Are Handed Down By Both Judge Keller And Judge Boyer

DOYLESTOWN, Aug. 2.—President Judge Hiram H. Keller broke the precedent of the Bucks county courts in sending drunken drivers who have an accident to jail, and sent Melvin Scott, 41, Clayton, N. Y., resident, on his way to St. Petersburg, Fla. where he has a job awaiting him.

Judge Keller told Scott that the only reason he suspended sentence in his case and placed him on probation for one year was because his 15-year-old son, his only family, is with him, and that if he sent him to jail the son would wander about.

Scott told the Court that all he had was $30 to get him and his son to Florida. Judge Keller advised Scott to leave immediately, lay off liquor and report to Probation Officer Horace E. Gwinner by mail as soon as he reached St. Petersburg.

Scott was arrested near Quakertown by a State Motor Policeman.

Pleading guilty to assault and battery, Joseph Schiavone, 22, of Elmer, N. J., and his brother, Frank, 18, of South Philadelphia, were given suspended sentences yesterday by Judge Calvin S. Boyer. They were involved in a riot at the King Farms, near Morrisville.

Rudolph Bohle, 52, Revere, pleaded guilty before Judge Keller yesterday to driving while drunk. He was sentenced to pay the costs and serve 2 months to 2 years in the Bucks County Prison. Bohle had an accident, his car hitting another machine and injuring a woman occupant. Bohle admitted drinking three whiskies and a glass of beer.

Opinions were handed down yesterday as follows:

By Judge Keller: Constanti Rutkowski vs. John Perkoski, new trial awarded; First Mechanics National Bank of Trenton vs. John Toth, Jr., and the Morrisville Bank, garnishee, and Helen Toth, additional garnishee, rule to dissolve attachment execution is made absolute and the attachment is dissolved.

By Judge Boyer: I. Edgar Fulmer vs. R. C. Allen Business Machines, Inc., Prothonotary is directed to enter decree nisi and give notice of the same to the parties in their counsel; George C. Kohlhaas vs. Margaret Kohlhaas, leave granted to libellant to place the case on the next argument list to ask to have the case referred back to the master.

Anthony Belcoski, Sellersville, who pleaded guilty to assault and battery growing out of a poker game fight on July 24, was given a suspended sentence, directed to pay the costs and placed on probation for one year. The defendant admitted breaking Ledy Beller's jaw and knocking his false teeth down his throat.

Judge Boyer granted a divorce to Frank F. Taylor from his wife, Dorothy Madeline Taylor, upon payment of costs.

Judge Keller handed down an opinion in the case of Evelyn M. Hansen, a minor, and Charles A. Hanson vs. Arthur Thierolf, Louise P. Schaffer, Fisher-Jones, Inc., and William C. Jones, Jr., and J. Kirk Leatherman, guardian ad litem for Arthur Thierolf, sur motion for a new trial and judgment on obstate verdict, that motions of the defendants are dismissed.

Sarobia Theatre To Present Fourth Play

As its fourth play of the Summer season the Sarobia Country Theatre, State Road, Edgington, will present Clemence Dane's "A Bill of Divorcement" on Friday and Saturday nights, August 12 and 13. The play also will be staged at the Women's Club in Bala-Cynwyd on Thursday, August 11.

William Beck, of the March of Time program, is cast in the leading role of shell-shocked Hilary Fairfield. Others are Carmen Jones, also of the March of Time program, Mickie McCormick, Dorothy Wolodars, D. Edgar Potter, Helen Mannix, Dorothy Justice, William Seal and Andrew McKay. Mary Myers is directing.

The fifth play, to be given at Sarobia on August 19 and 20, will be "Three-Cornered Moon" On Thursday, August 18, the Sarobians will trek to the Women's Club in Bala-Cynwyd to give a repeat performance of "Accent on Youth."

NOW YOUR STATE

(This is the second of a series of six articles, dealing with Urbanism, past, present and future Pennsylvania.)

pared for The Courier by F. A. in, Executive Director, Pennsylvania State Planning Board) has been said: "If a man build a mouse-trap, though he live a deepest forest, the world will a path to his door." And as far as the unusual is concerned, this well be true.

en it comes to finding a place rich to buy their ordinary, everyday commodities, however, our people, unless certain inducements are offered, can hardly be expected to ignore accessibility. That they do not is borne out by the statistics which show that the retail merchandising business has a tendency to flow to well-defined centers largely in proportion to accessibility.

Research conducted by a nationally-known research organization has disclosed that there are 32 such centers in Pennsylvania. In addition, Tioga and Bradford Counties have no specific shopping center assigned, while Susquehanna County comes under the Binghamton, New York, shopping center. Very naturally, the largest of these centers in population, total sales and territory are Philadelphia and Pittsburgh. These two centers serve 54 per cent of the people, have 52 per cent of the total number of stores and do 60 per cent of the total business.

Considering the major business classifications, we find that 25 per cent of the merchandising dollar of the State is spent for food, 17 per cent for automotive requirements, 16 per cent for general merchandise and 10 per cent for apparel.

Although each of Pennsylvania's retail shopping areas derives its name from the city which is its shopping center, stores in the many towns in each area obviously do a considerable amount of local business. The family food basket is filled in home markets; automobiles being sold at fixed prices are bought at agencies convenient to home; miscellaneous purchases are bought locally or in the suburbs where there is convenient parking space. But, on the other hand, national advertising and our contacts with the cities have made us style conscious; we prefer to do our shopping in the city for clothes, curtains, furniture, rugs, pianos, and such other finer merchandise—purchases made only after mature deliberation.

The shaping up of definite shopping areas has been due to influences long at work. The shifting of trade in certain lines of merchandise away from the country stores and small town stores to the county seats and cities has been going on for many years, but it has been particularly marked since 1920. Some of the shopping centers cities have been losing trade to the large stores in the metropolitan districts, but this shift has been less marked than the changes in the areas themselves. During this period some shifts have been taking place in the opposite direction but in a less marked degree. Limitation of parking facilities led some stores to establish suburban branches. Mail order houses may have sensed a falling off in catalog sales after opening up their retail chain stores. Suburban department stores, roadside stands, gasoline filling stations with their increasing lines of merchandising can be mentioned as some of these influencing factors.

The basic cause of the shifting of purchasing and the formation of well-defined shopping areas has been the increased use of automobiles (including trucks) and the development of good road systems. Supplementary to these causes are the growth in popularity of motion pictures and the appeal of radio advertising. Generally, rural folks now go to the larger towns of their area to shop and to visit the motion picture houses and to see the large displays of good merchandise. Consequently, the lag in the spread of styles from the city to the country is lessened. Instead of drawing their rural trade from a radius of five or six miles, the urban stores now get business from distances of 30 miles or more and the change is still going on. Automobile speeds have been increasing with a corresponding increase in distances traveled by shoppers and the urban store truck delivery.

LOOKING FORWARD

By Franklyn Waltman
Publicity Director, Republican National Committee

Upbrausingly funny was Representative Maury Maverick's whimper that his defeat in the Texas primaries was due to the local Democratic political machine and "anti-Roosevelt money." To hear Mr. Maverick one would never suspect that the Federal political machine ardently supported him and that New Deal millions were shoveled into his district in the futile effort to renominate him.

Whatever sum was used to defeat Mr. Maverick could not have been a drop in the bucket compared with the money lavishly tossed about by the Roosevelt Administration to save this fountain of New Deal inspiration, not to mention a personal endorsement by Mr. Roosevelt himself. For instance, a few days before the primary the New Deal slum clearance authority announced an allocation of $3,500,000 for San Antonio—in the heart of Mr. Maverick's district.

Whenever a New Dealer is nominated or wins an election it is always due, according to the Democratic propagandists, to the popularity of the President and the overwhelming virtue of the New Deal. But whenever a New Dealer goes down to defeat, according to these same objective, non-partisan authorities, it is because of the hostility of the local machine, or the use of anti-Roosevelt money, but never because the voters might look on the New Deal with jaundiced eyes. The truth of the matter is that Mr. Maverick was defeated because of his radicalism and his clowning. He was no follower of the New Deal. He was one of its leaders. Whenever less valiant souls wavered in reckless experimentation or inane subversion of constitutional government, it was Mr. Maverick who spurred the breathless House leaders on to a faster pace.

Yet Mr. Maverick sees almost eye to eye with the President on most issues. A typical instance of their harmony of viewpoint was evidenced on February 5, 1937, the day Mr. Roosevelt took the country by storm with his demand for an immediate packing of the Supreme Court in order to get judicial approval for his unconstitutional schemes. While the Democratic leaders of the House were left stunned by the breath-taking Presidential message, Mr. Maverick jumped to his feet, rushed to the clerk's desk, seized the mimeographed copy of the President's Court packing bill, scribbled his name across the top and introduced it as his bill.

Subsequently when it became apparent that the votes were not in the bag for the measure, as predicted by genial Jim Farley, the President and his satellites were quite willing to have the bill become known as the Ashurst-Maverick Bill. Thus one of the sponsors of that iniquitous legislation has gone down to defeat. There will be more.

So far not a single outstanding opponent of the Court packing bill has been defeated, even though the New Deal has sought their political scalps. As the Texas voters were retiring Mr. Maverick to private life, they renominated for another term Representative Hatton W. Summers. It was Mr. Summers who affronted the New Deal leadership by arising on the House floor and severely denouncing the Court packing bill in a speech regarded as its death-blow. He got no friendly pats from the President nor were millions of New Deal money promised to his district.

Almost as humorous as Mr. Maverick's whimpering remark was the pious, solemn lecture delivered a few days ago by Representative David J. Lewis to Senator Millard E. Tydings. Mr. Lewis, a flaming New Dealer, was persuaded by the White House to oppose Senator Tydings of Maryland for renomination as part of the New Deal purge.

"I," said Mr. Lewis to Senator Tydings, "offer you this advice: 'Without consistency there is no moral strength.' We cannot reverse ourselves too often. The voters are not deceived by it. We cannot have our cake and eat it, too."

In view of the gyrations and somersaults of Mr. Lewis' political god, President Roosevelt, for six years, it is no wonder that Marylanders burst out laughing.

By all means, let us have humor in this year's campaign. It will not relieve our sad plight but it will take our minds off of it.

NAGOYA, Japan — (INS) — Three passengers and two pilots escaped serious hurt but one innocent bystander was killed and another was injured here recently when a Japan Air Transport Liner crashed into the bay. The plane, preparing to land, sailed too low over a ship in the bay and knocked a sailor off the mast and grazed another with a wing.

BAMBOO REINFORCING

TOKYO — (INS) — Use of green bamboo, instead of iron, in reinforcing concrete in two and three-story buildings is being urged here to conserve the nation's meager supply of iron. It is pointed out that countless Japanese houses are made of bamboo and mud and last for 30 to 50 years. By cutting bamboo at the proper season and treating it scientifically, it is claimed that bamboo could be used adequately to reinforce concrete, thus releasing much needed iron for other uses.

ON SCREENS IN BRISTOL

BRISTOL

What is "the magnificent obsession?"

It refers to a magical pattern of living which local theatre-goers will have an opportunity to learn when they see "Magnificent Obsession." Universals John M. Stahl production which opened at the Bristol Theatre on Monday, with Irene Dunne and Robert Taylor in the starring roles. At the same time they will see what is regarded as a powerfully emotional film drama, the crowning effort of a master screen director. A stirring motion picture, it promises to become one of the screen's most important contributions for 1938.

Primarily, the story deals with the romance of Miss Dunne, portraying a beautiful young bride, and Taylor, delineating a wastrel scion of a wealthy family.

The climax of the story comes six years later, in a series of events filled with heart-rending tenderness, culminating a sweetly poignant love drama such as rarely reaches the screen.

The large cast supporting Miss Dunne and Taylor in "Magnificent Obsession" includes Charles Butterworth, Betty Furness, Sara Haden, Ralph Morgan, Henry Armetta, Gilbert Emery and Arthur Treacher.

GRAND

From the pen of the author of "All Quiet on the Western Front" comes another gripping story, this time a narrative in which a nation's woes after the World War are overshadowed by one of the most human love stories to reach the screen.

In the new picture, "Three Comrades," which opened yesterday at the Grand Theatre for a two-day showing, Robert Taylor and Margaret Sullivan provide a poignant romance, with Franchot Tone and Robert Young also in stellar roles, adding performances which will remain long in the memory of the moviegoer.

The story, based on Erich Maria Remarque's widely-read novel, centers about Taylor, Tone and Young, three young war veterans who face a chaotic future together in a country gripped by post-war disturbances. Taylor, the youngest, falls in love with Miss Sullivan, the love affair giving all three comrades a new interest in life.

Taylor and Miss Sullivan are married and it seems as though fate has offered them a share of happiness at last. But life decrees otherwise. Young is slain in a riot and Miss Sullivan suffers an illness on her honeymoon. When she faces an operation in a distant sanitarium, Tone sells his proudest possession, a racing car, but Miss Sullivan dies, leaving Taylor and Tone to face the future alone.

The fine direction of Frank Borzage is discernible in the picture's even flow and brilliantly knit episodes.

In the supporting cast Guy Kibbee, Lionel Atwill, Henry Hull, Charley Grapewin and Monty Woolley offer effective portrayals.

equally plain remarks to make. It said: "United States propaganda has stirred up Brazilian nationalism against the German community in Brazil in order to speed up the enrollment of Brazil in Roosevelt's anti-Fascist Pan-German front and to meet the competition of German trade. The result is know . . . a wave of arrests pursued alleged Nazi agents until finally the foreign organization of the National Socialist Party was prohibited. Brazilian leaders were imposed on foreign associations, and in the settlement districts of South Brazil, particularly St. Catharina and Parana, German, Italian and Polish schools were destroyed."

HANDLEY, RIZZO SET BUC PACE

By Anthony J. Pugliese
(I. N. S. Sports Writer)

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—(INS)—Supreme confidence in their own ability, a situation brought about by the prowess of a few key players, has made the Pittsburgh Pirates the most feared club in the National League this season.

And this very confidence is likely to bring the Buccaneers their first flag since 1927, because their winning spirit has permeated the entire ball club, and a team under the impetus of victory is no soft touch.

In their makeup, the Pirates are not a great deal stronger than was the Pittsburgh club of the past several seasons, but spirit has been instilled into the lineup, and all the boys are playing to win.

Perhaps the key man in the first stages of this renaissance was Lee Handley, the flashy little infielder who has supplied the spark to the Pirate defense. He teams up well with Arky Vaughan, Pep Young and Gus Suhr, to give the Pirates a much more compact infield than they've had in several years.

The batting order punch has been provided by Johnny Rizzo, the hard-hitting acquisition from Columbus who is showing signs of being worth infinitely more than his $25,000 purchase price. Rizzo has hit well over .300 stride in recent weeks and has paced the rise of the Pirates from nowhere in the race to the most highly regarded niche in the loop. Handley also is potent at the plate.

The Pirates' affable manager, Pie Traynor, sees in this newly acquired confidence the seeds of a pennant. He feels the Bucs are going to win the banner, and although he won't publicly proclaim them the next champions, he is willing to aver they'll be in the fight right down the home stretch.

The pitching staff—Cy Blanton, young Bob Klinger, Mace Brown, Jim Tobin and Bill Swift—has gone out to the mound this year feeling they can win ball games. Before, it was a matter of how soon would they be in the showers. Realizing that they have a batting punch, and an air tight defense behind them, it has become easy for the Pirate hurlers to stand up and "fog them through."

On the other hand, the rest of the team now realizes too that Pittsburgh has something more than humpty-dumplings on the hill, a fact which produces confident, efficient baseball.

Perhaps the most amazing bit of pitching has been shown by Mace Brown, the Pirates' relief finger, who stopped the American Leaguers cold in the All-Star game. Brown, without a starting assignment victory, is well on his way toward 20 victories. Blanton and Klinger are bracketed near the top of the pitching averages and not far behind is Tobin, another smart, young hurler.

It all adds up to this. The pitching is there, the infield is strong and the outfield with Paul and Lloyd Waner and Rizzo is among the best in the majors. A combination of adequate, though not too brilliant pitching, a steady batting punch and plenty of spirited drive has produced in the Pittsburgh entry a confident and successful pennant contender.

PIRATES ARE KEEPING FANS ON ANXIOUS BENCH

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 2.—(INS)—During the early part of the present baseball campaign, experts, in appraising the merits of the respective major league clubs, claimed the Pittsburgh Pirates had the "goods," but they were a bunch of "playboys" who would fold, as usual, around the middle of the season. In short, they were a fourth place club.

As the season opened the Pirates, living up to all former years and predictions, started off with a "bang." They led the league for about a week. Then, as aforementioned, they slumped. They began playing like a high school nine, playing as though they didn't care which way the score went.

After finishing their first home stay, the swashbuckling Buccaneers, the records showed, were in fifth place. Starting his club on his first real road jaunt, Manager "Pie" Traynor began shifting his lineup. He pulled Bill Brubaker, who was playing third, and inserted a lively little ball-hawk, Lee Handley, and unknowingly added the necessary "pep" that lifted the club from the doldrums. Handy Handley proved to be the spark that started the engine roaring.

All in all, however, Traynor was having a difficult time. Everything he tried seemed an error. The fans were clamoring for his resignation. Paul Waner, who had won the batting crown so often, was hitting in the "banjo class," a term given to extra weak batters. Johnny Rizzo, sensational rookie outfielder, was out of the lineup with a wrenched wrist. Things in general were bitter. Till one day—

The Bucs won a ball game. They had won other ball games, but they seemed to win this in a little different fashion. They fought, as the trite saying goes, tooth-and-nail for the win. Newspaper correspondents were so amazed that fingers froze at typewriter keys. They were too amazed to tell the home folk, who always were pulling hopefully that this would be the year for the pennant. But it didn't take long for the home fans to find out.

The Bucs went on a win streak. Nobody seemed to be able to stop them. The streak lasted 13 games, and against the leading clubs in the West —Chicago, St. Louis, and Cincinnati. Since that time the Pirates have as yet to lose two games in succession. Everyday they drop one, the fans and experts alike announce the start of the talisman, but the next day they bounce out of it—fighting.

Of course, there are one or two players offered as the leaders in the drive—namely, Handley, Rizzo and Mace Brown, relief pitcher extraordinary—but players will tell you that everybody, including Porky Cohen, the bat boy, has been essential in the drive.

In general the Pirates are after the flag. They feel they have the best club, and most important of all they have looked that "lackadaisical attitude" out of the ball park.

LENNY DEVER MAKING RECORD IN BOXING WORLD

Lenny Dever, local boy, who has turned professional and is fighting in New York State won two bouts last week. On Monday night he won a six-round decision over Frankie Cicero, Buffalo, former A. A. U. champion. Dever won four of the six rounds, losing the second and last rounds.

Saturday night, Lenny scored a knockout over Johnny Higginsborn, Canada, in the second round. The bouts were held in Buffalo.

Dever received a nasty cut over his right eye which may force him to postpone the bout which is booked for him for next Monday night.

RAIN PREVENTS BOUTS SCHEDULED AT ST. ANN'S

The amateur boxing bouts scheduled for the St. Ann's Arena last night were called off because of rain. The bouts will be held next Monday night. It was previously announced that the bouts would be held tonight but late last night, a change was made to next Monday night because several other clubs in Philadelphia are holding their shows tonight.

Match-maker Straffe announced that the bout between Russell Pearson, Langhorne and Joe Meyers, Croydon, for the 160 pound championship of Bucks County, will go on next Monday night. The bout between Tally Sclarra, St. Ann's, and Ray Robinson, Langhorne, will also take place.

ST. ANN'S AND GRUNDY'S BATTLE HERE TONIGHT

St. Ann's will play the William H. Grundy Company team tonight on the latter's diamond in a Bristol Twilight League tilt. Games scheduled for last night were called off because of rain. Rohm and Haas was leading the Grundy team at the close of the third inning, 3-0, and the Odd Fellows had a 1-0 edge on St. Ann's going into the fourth when the game was called.

Tonight, Della will umpire and Juno score.

Doylestown May Rebuild Sewer Plant

erection of the new system. Included in the proposed rebuilding plan is an item of $3000 for grading and fencing the new plant. This may be cut down considerably, it was pointed out to Council.

For years, Council has been putting off the rebuilding of the local sewer plant. Just recently an $8000 improvement was made to the plant but it was only the first step in the general rebuilding plan which must now be brought to a head if the town is to get financial assistance from the Government.

A bond issue will have to be floated if the new plant is to be built. It means that if the system costs $80,000, bonds amounting to $44,000 will have to be issued by the Borough, while the Government will pay the balance of the cost amounting to $36,000.

Under the proposed rebuilding plan, no sewer extension is contained in the set-up. The cost is simply for the rebuilding of the sewer plant. Any sewer extensions would be extra.

Pennsylvania's State Health Department has been in contact almost weekly with local Council members or with the consulting engineer, urging Council to delay action no longer. The State has practically demanded action on this latest proposition.

Members of Council were all of the opinion that the sewer plant project should be passed and work started as soon as possible under the Government's offer. Final action will be taken at the August meeting of Council.

EDUCATED BEES

BUDAPEST.—(INS)—The aroma and flavor of honey is controlled by directing the attention of bees to flowers of special fragrance. Although the bee is famous for its industry, it is lacking in taste and discrimination in selecting its diet. Honey is made in Hungary with the aid of educated honey bees which possess new qualities. When bees are scientifically restricted in their flower diet, their honey is far sweeter than the ordinary product and keeps its flavor and aroma for long periods of time.

Married Teachers Refuse To Resign

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Aug. 2.—None of 26 married teachers had complied today with the request of the Johnstown school board to resign by August 1 because "your continuance as a teacher is detrimental to the teaching profession in general."

Members of the board declared that despite the failure of the teachers to comply with the request, the purpose of the board had been partially met. They asserted the letters had centered State-wide attention upon a condition they believe is not in the best interests of schools.

Herbert J. Stockton, former president of the Pennsylvania School Directors Association, expressed the belief the association would initiate a move to revamp the Teacher Tenure act to give school boards the power to eliminate married teachers from faculties.

2,000 On Relief in N. Y. To Get False Teeth

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—The City Welfare Department revealed today that about 2000 home relief recipients soon could go off their diet of soup and soft foods.

Nine private dental laboratories signed contracts to furnish the relief clients with false teeth. Some of those needing them have waited two years in vain, the department said.

COMMUNICATION

Editor of The Courier:

As one of the recent flood victims along the creek in Fergusonville below Newportville, I want to compliment the volunteer firemen and state police for their work during this period. They did wonderful work in getting the folks out of their homes. Mr. Flood, Jr., of Riverside avenue, Fergusonville, needs the greatest of praise for his work, not only in this recent flood but the flood three years ago. Mr. Flood, Jr., rescues all the folks who won't leave their homes until they are forced to, and then he gets to them in his canoe, which is very difficult to handle at flood times. Mr. H. S. Phifer wants to thank him from the bottom of his heart for saving him, as the current was too swift for him to get to safety without the help of Mr. Flood and his canoe.

EARLE SHOWS HIS HAND

"The efforts of Gov. Earle of Pennsylvania to avoid a Grand Jury investigation of the charges of graft and extortion leveled against him and some of his associates recall the gyrations of Tweed and his notorious ring. They also left no stone unturned.

"Gov. Earle has now summoned the Pennsylvania Legislature in special session. The majority of the members are Democrats and Mr. Earle therefore has reason to believe they will be friendly to him. The Legislature is asked to do two things. One is to create a legislative committee to inquire into the charges. The other is to enact a law to restrict the power of a Grand Jury already called to investigate the conduct of a State Administration. If this program is realized there will be only one inquiry into the Governor's conduct and that inquiry will be under the most friendly of auspices.

"The Governor offers an astonishing defense for the course he has charted. The Grand Jury investigation must be prevented, he says, because it represents an invasion by the judiciary of the proper sphere of the legislative branch of Government. Boss Tweed didn't think of that one.

"Gov. Earle conveniently forgets that violations of the criminal law have been charged.

"The charges, if true, would justify impeachment proceedings in the Legislature. But graft and extortion are not only grounds for impeachment; they are also crimes, and the determination of whether a crime has been committed is the business of courts. If, as a result of a Grand Jury investigation, indictments are voted, the men accused will have ample opportunity to defend themselves. Quite commonly, public officials when falsely accused have welcomed the opportunity to clear themselves which a trial affords. They have preferred a trial in open court to a whitewashing by friendly politicians.

"Gov. Earle's gyrations suggest the state of his mind. The Democratic Party in Pennsylvania seemed, until quite recently, to be in an impregnable position. Today its forces are divided and its factions are embittered. To the charges of gross mis-use of relief funds for political purposes have been added accusations of graft and corruption on a huge scale. The effort to avoid judicial inquiry and possible exposure until after the election in November may find its explanation in desperation."

WHY SO TOUCHY?

(Washington Star, July 22nd)

Washington Star, July 22:

"The Democratic New Deal Administration in Washington and the Democratic Earle administration in Pennsylvania have one thing in common—they do not like to be investigated. Indeed, they resist with vehemence and with screams of outrage when suspicion is directed against them.

"The Democratic Governor of Pennsylvania, George Earle, has fought for weeks to prevent a grand jury investigation of charges of corruption made against his administration—not by Republicans, but by his own former attorney general, Charles J. Margiotti, and by Mayor S. Davis Wilson of Philadelphia, who was recently a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Senator against Earle himself. Gov. Earle when he was unable to coerce the courts into denying a grand jury investigation of these charges, issued a call for his Democratic controlled State Legislature to come to his aid. He hoped, apparently, to have the Legislature subpoena all the information which was to have been submitted to the grand jury—and it will either be made public or not as the legislative committees deem advisable. Barring that, or perhaps in addition, it is planned to have the Legislature pass a law preventing a grand jury investigation of the administration in Harrisburg.

"What has come over the American people? Public opinion seemingly lies dormant and inert. The New Deal Democrats in Washington and in Pennsylvania have no intention of being 'investigated.' They do not plan to let the light of day shine upon some of their activities. And it looks very much as though they would get away with it, one way or another.

"The New Dealers have broken down the morale of the country, and are breaking it further. Yet, they are expansive in their declaration that never before have the people been so conscious of wrong doing, so unwilling to permit the exploitation of the people themselves. To quote a shopworn but nevertheless pointed saying: 'It is to laugh.'

GUFFY RUNS TO FORM

(Wilmington Morning News, July 27th)

Wilmington Morning News, July 27:

"In his caustic attack upon the courts of Pennsylvania Senator Joseph F. Guffey is running true to the form he displayed when the ill-fated attempt to dominate the Supreme Court was before Congress. The Pennsylvania Senator was one of the arch-champions of the legislation sponsored by the President to pack the highest tribunal because its members had not seen eye to eye with Mr. Roosevelt on pet New Deal experiments that were found unconstitutional.

"Guffey was one of the die-hards in that ignominious debacle, one of the 20 'immortals' who voted against consigning the court packing scheme to the oblivion of a Senate committee. And he has figured prominently in another defeat since then as a backer of the Kennedy-Wilson ticket which was overwhelmed by the Governor Earle forces.

"Charges of fraud and extortion and political corruption made against men in the Earle administration during that memorable conflict are now under investigation. And if we recall rightly, Senator Guffey himself sounded off an accusation—vague it is true—against the Earle administration during the heated controversy.

"Now he has joined forces with Governor Earle in his high-handed endeavors to prevent a court passing upon the accusations against the Earle regime. Falling back upon the old theory that might makes right, they are seeking to have the Legislature whitewash the scandal in a special session that will cost the taxpayers of Pennsylvania hundreds of thousands of dollars.

"In his attack upon the Pennsylvania courts Senator Guffey goes further than even the bitterest opponent did against the Supreme Court. He accuses certain Pennsylvania jurists of accepting 'partial stock gifts' from a banking firm, and he calls for impeachment of those judges.

"Blasts at the courts evidently have become a favorite pastime of those in high places to vent their chagrin because judges decline to yield to pressure or expediency. Would Governor Earle or Senator Guffey have denounced the courts if they perfunctorily had whitewashed the charges against the Earle administration without following the orderly processes of the law?

"In the end the grand jury investigation may, upon the evidence or lack of evidence, dismiss the entire subject. But meanwhile the evasion and jockeying and counter-attacks of the Governor and Senator are sowing a deeper impression that there may be something to be feared by desperate politicians."
